

Take Advantage of your Company's Membership.

Your company belongs to the Washington Technology Industry Association - the state's leading technology organization - but what's in it for you? Plenty. As a member, you can connect with the people, education and resources you need to advance both personally and professionally. Through in-person events and online communities, you can network with peers, exchange best practices and gain new insights. Or take advantage of discounts on key business services, available exclusively to WTIA members.

Meet People and Stay Current. As an employee of a member company, you get discounts on educational and social events. Come to an event and network with like-minded people while hearing industry leaders speak on timely topics. You also get free access to Special Interest Groups (SIGs) for more in-depth knowledge and discussions in specific areas.

Stay Informed. The WTIA business resources knowledge base includes expert opinions, news and analysis on the technology industry to keep you informed. From salary surveys to recommended reading, you'll find resources relevant to your career.

Network Online. The WTIA hosts community forums and blogs to facilitate interaction in the technology community. Use these tools to discuss ideas, share information and more.

Join Email Lists. Sign up to receive timely and relevant e-mail on topics and events related to your specific interests.

Get Group Discounts. As a WTIA member, you can take advantage of our Discounted Service Program for significant discounts on services like health care, 401ks, business insurance, Dell computing equipment, T-mobile services., office supplies and more.

To learn more about WTIA membership, benefits, and events, visit:
www.washingtontechnology.org.